National Geographic Maps - Trails Illustrated : Big Basin, Santa Cruz (National Geographic Trails Illustrated Map) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Big Basin, Santa Cruz (National Geographic Trails Illustrated Map):

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. The Best Hiking Map for the Southern Santa Cruz MountainsBy Fritz R. WardMaps in the National Geographic's "Trail's Illustrated" series are usually among the best available for hikers. This one is no exception. Clear and easy to read, it's scale is broad enough that you can follow nearly any trail among the many great parks in the area and at the same time locate yourself relative to any of the other recreational areas nearby. Several trail systems connect, and the map also shows the full Skyline to the Sea Trail, the pre eminent hike in the Bay Area. Of course, it features point to mileage for all trails and other recreational routes, is GPS compatible, and includes more hikes than the title implies. Besides Big Basin and Santa Cruz proper, Butano Creek, Henry Cowell Redwoods, Castle Rock, Ano Nuevo Preserve, and Sanborn Skyline Park are among the many great places you can hike using this map. The map does not, however, cover the northern end of the range. Still, this is a wonderful place to explore. I was pleased to see it included the public lands around Lexington Reservoir, and I will be visiting there on my next trip to the Bay Area. Highly recommended for dedicated hikers.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. If there were one thing I would change about these ...By MichaelIf there were one thing I would change about these National Geographic maps it would be to either have the key on both sides or flip one map over on the page so that you can flip over the fold with the key on it while looking at the opposite page and have it be right side up. While I can read upside down it's not ideal. Both sides are printed with north pointing to the same edge of the sheet, so if you turn over the key from the other side it is upside down. Otherwise it's a decent map for finding trails and getting a rough idea of land access possibilities.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I will surviveBy Danger RussI got this map for my emergency bag in case there is a zombie apocalypse, or less exciting catastrophe. You never know when you're gonna be stuck in the woods trying to figure out how to get to a friends property without using the roads! Ha!

Waterproof Tear-Resistant Topographic MapExpertly researched and created in partnership with local land management agencies, National Geographic's Trails Illustrated map of Big Basin, Santa Cruz provides an unparalleled tool for exploring this landscape of redwood forests and picturesque California coastline. Some of this map's key points of interest include Lexington Reservoir; Loch Lomond; and Big Basin, The Forest of Nisene Marks, Wilder Ranch, and Henry Cowell Redwoods (Fall Creek) state parks. The handy trail chart will help you choose a trail that's right for your activity level and recreation use whether you're traveling by foot, horse, or bike. Trails where leashed dogs are allowed are noted as well. Miles of trails are clearly marked and include mileages between intersections. A camping chart lists campgrounds according to type and the services available at each. The map base includes contour lines and elevations for summits, the Pacific Ocean and some lakes. Public beach access, scenic viewpoints, boat launches, horse camps, and archery ranges are just some of the recreation features noted. Areas for fishing, swimming, and surfing are highlighted as well. Every Trails Illustrated map is printed on "Backcountry Tough" waterproof, tear-resistant paper. A full UTM grid is printed on the map to aid with GPS navigation. Other features found on this map include: Loma Prieta, Los Gatos, Point Ao Nuevo, Point Santa Cruz, San Lorenzo River, Santa Clara Valley, Santa Cruz, Santa Cruz Mountains, Scotts Valley. Map Scale = 1:40,000 Sheet Size = 25.5" x 37.75" Folded Size = 4.25" x 9.25"
