Mara Vorhees : Boston Encounter before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Boston Encounter:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Lovin' the Lonely P...By alwaysonlinebuyerMy qualifications to review: I've been to 24 countries and have a LP for each... plus, the city LPs. It's rare to have a bad LP. (Like, for instance, LP:Tokyo sucked. The author was def somebody's niece who was a wanna-be writer!) And this is yet another winner! Lovin' the Lonely!!! It even has an Itinerary Builder that is basically a graph. It lists the 'hoods, then 3 of the best sights, eating, and drinking in each 'hood. Never seen LP do that before but it's great!2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A little bit too short...By Ofir FrenkelThis is the Encounter version of Lonely Planet, which means much less content and much more photos and other stuff that you don't really need. On the other hand lots of useful stuff that is usually part of the regular Lonely Planet are missing, so I'd buy the regular version instead! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Already becoming outdated

This guide is great as an overview to this fabulous city and accuracy for the more permanent tourist attractions (Freedom Trail, for instance!) is good - but several restaurants have already shut down/changed names/management so be wary of those reviews.

What Will Your Boston Encounter Be?
Getting up close and personal with the Green Monster at Fenway Park
Haggling over antiques in Beacon Hill
Feasting at salumerias, pasticcerias and enotecas in the very Italian North End
Making a house-call to the oldest home in Boston: Paul Revere's abode
Gallery-hopping with fellow art enthusiasts in Back Bay
Day tripping through history with visits to Lexington, Concord, Salem and Plymouth
Discover Twice the City in Half the Time
Full-color pull-out map for easy navigation
Our local author recommends the best pubs, shops, historical sites, museums and more
Hand-picked highlights, itineraries and excursions help you make the most of a short trip
Bostonians share the love: meet a filmmaker, a festival co-founder, a comedian and a Professor Emeritus
