From Bacon Edwin M : Boston Illustrated (Illustrated Edition) (Dodo Press) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Boston Illustrated (Illustrated Edition) (Dodo Press):

Edwin Munroe/Monroe Bacon (1844-1916) was an American author and journalist. He went to private schools in Providence, Boston and Philadelphia. At the age of 19 he became a reporter for The Boston Advertiser and later The Illustrated Chicago News before joining The New York Times, where he was the Managing Editor till 1872. In 1883, he became the Editor in Chief of The Daily Advertiser and then of The Boston Post. In 1891 he retired and devoted his time completely to literature. He compiled several volumes of Boston history among which are Bacon's Dictionary of Boston (1883/6), Boston Illustrated (1886), Boston: A Guide Book (1903), Washington Street: Old and New (1913) and Rambles Around Old Boston (1914). His other works include: Manual of Ship Subsidies (1911), Manual of Navigation Laws (1912) and Direct Elections and Law-Making by Popular Vote (1912).
