Michelle Pentz Glave : Eat Drink Santa Fe before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Eat Drink Santa Fe:

5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Better than Zagats!By M. Halvorson-TaylorIn this witty and helpful guide, Glave provides her reader with all the information needed to eat and drink the BEST of Santa Fe. The reviews are succinct and flavorful, the information is plentiful (with icons to alert one to great takeout options, family-friendly locales, romantic spots, pricing), and the layout is clean and accessible. Eat Drink helped me find the right spot for the right occasion -- and I don't plan to return to Santa Fe without my copy close at hand!

EAT DRINK SANTA FE is a savvy, fun-to-read, easy-to-navigate reference that points visitors and locals alike to the city's best classic greasy spoons, worth-every-dime splurges, way-off-the-Plaza treasures, and romantic rendezvous spots. Santa Fe New Mexican restaurant critic Michelle Pentz Glave spent the past year eating anonymously at a broad and eclectic range of Santa Fe's restaurants and cafes. Her efforts yielded the best 50, categorized by breakfast, lunch, dinner, takeout, and caf. EAT DRINK SANTA FE designed by former Outside magazine art director Sue Boylan includes a locator map. An extensive index and nine icon categories help readers to further refine their choices. Reviews are concise, descriptive and playful while lending context and analysis to each dining option.

"Glave is a professional foodie... loving covering everything from haute-cuisine to neighborhood places where high-class means a big paper napkin." -- Santa Fe New Mexican, August 29, 2003 "Michelle Pentz Glave... is someone who really knows the dining scene in Santa Fe." -- Local Flavor, September 2003 About the Author Glave is a restaurant reviewer and regular contributor to The Santa Fe New Mexican. She has covered food for The Albuquerque Journal and Travel + Leisure magazine. In 2002, she attended chef school in New Mexico. A graduate of Yale University and Columbia University's Journalism program, Glave has contributed to The Wall Street Journal, Fortune, Wired and Outside. She lives in Santa Fe with her husband and daughter.
