JoAnna Kang : The HUNT New York City (The HUNT Guides) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The HUNT New York City (The HUNT Guides):

Instead of indiscriminately featuring everything and the kitchen sink, The HUNT team has donned our curatorial colored glasses and carefully selected 100 or so unique, authentic local NYC businesses that range from eye-popping and brand spankin new to deeply patinaed and WAY off the beaten path, funky and unexpected to chic and shiny. Over the last decade, our guides have become the go-to source for a worldwide community of locals and travelers who seek out genuine, intriguing independent businesses.

"If you absolutely must find the best cowboy boots in Austin, Texas, a bait-and-tackle shop with high-design sensibilities in Providence, R.I., a Persian ice cream parlor in Hollywood or Japanese tapas in Brooklyn, N.Y., these compact urban guides are for you." -- TIME Magazine "These guides are unapologetic in their well-honed coverage of food and shopping. Period. The picks come from savvy locals, and I love getting an insider's perspective." -- Martha Stewart Living Magazine

About the Author JoAnna Kang admits it took her years to make the cross country move to NYC. The excitement from friends and family soon dissipated. They were known to pantomime a gun to the head after listening to another soliloquy of her someday reuniting with a beloved NYC bagel. They'd implore, "Then, move already!" Yet, the thought of leaving Portland, Ore. felt like jumping out of a warm, comfy bed and straight into an icy river. But the move happened, and she confronted head-on NYC's cramped, yet well-oiled machine, churning out long workdays in exchange to live in a 24-hour glutton's paradise. Despite the 350-square foot challenge and ignoring the fact that the armoire is four feet from the stove, she still enjoys recreating delicious recipes from Elizabeth David cookbooks. On days when the aprons are tucked away, you'll most likely find her fogging up the glass case at her favorite deli and neighbor, Russ Daughters.
