Peter Watts : The Level Guide to the South West (Only Tourist Guide for Wheelchair Users and the Less Able) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Level Guide to the South West (Only Tourist Guide for Wheelchair Users and the Less Able):

This tourist guide for wheelchair users and the less able covers Cornwall, Devon, Dorset and Somerset. Towns are listed within each county and assessed in terms of accessibility for attractions, shopping facilities, places to stay and eat, car parking and toilets.

"There are over 8.5 million disabled people in the UK - a very large minority! When I joined the ranks of wheelchair users I was astounded at the lack of service available. While every bookshop offers a plethora of travel or guidebooks there are none for the less able and wheelchair users. I wanted to offer a book that doesn't just pay lip service to the needs of disabled people." Peter Watts
