Informative and Well WrittenBy Stone HengeblueIf you are a fan of Mr. Hawthorne, you will enjoy this biography written by Frank Preston Stearns and published in 1906.It is very informative and well written with a clear admiration for Nathaniel Hawthorne and his genius, yet not afraid to make critical examination of his literary work.The author gets long winded in certain sections about current events of the early 1900's, well after Nathaniels's time, just to make his opinions known and having little to do with the subject matter, it seems. Still a very worthwhile read. I enjoyed it.
